

Position:

Research Engineer (Natural language processing / Machine translation)

Location:

Hong Kong (Science Park)

Responsibilities:

- Conduct applied research and development work in the areas of natural language processing and machine translation;
- Design and develop core algorithms and platforms of machine translation to enhance the competitiveness and user experience of Huawei 's mobile phones and other related products;
- Collaborate with leading research institutions/groups in the field of natural language processing.

Qualifications:

- Possess a Master degree or above in computer science, statistics, applied mathematics and other related fields;
- Have basic knowledge and development experience in the fields of machine learning and natural language processing;
- Have strong programming skills, experienced in one or more programming languages including but not limited to: C/C++, Java, Python;
- Have good teamwork spirit, communication skills;
- Familiar with at least one of the deep learning frameworks: Tensorflow, Pytorch, etc.

Application: Interested candidates should send application materials including resume to liliangyou@huawei.com.