Full Stack Developer

We’re hiring a full stack developer to join our #TeamKossie to continuously improve online coaching platform with our founding team. The main reasons why millennials stop looking after their mental health are, a. expensive therapy, b. difficult to carve out time due to social media & c. lack direction in accessing the right support. We’re determined to develop this platform, in order to provide an affordable channel to boost millennials’ mental health.

As a Full Stack Developer, you’re responsible for developing and delivering the platform on a specific timeframe. You will conduct program testing, system testing & developing systematic test cases to support user acceptance test. Ideally, you will take part in every bit of the fun, creative process, from generating ideas and concepts, to building them with simple solutions to complex problems. A successful candidate will combine strong technical skills, a passion for problem-solving, and a growth mindset.

At Kossie, we are keen to build a positive workplace culture, where we are encouraged to seek help whenever needed, and we praise each other over achievements. Our mission is to inspire millennials becoming the best version of ourselves, together!

Job Duties:
- Build and maintain new landing page for promotion and/or marketing purposes
- Design, develop & implement new cutting-edge functionality and features to enhance user experience
- Engage system development in both front-end and back-end programming built on Next.js - React Java Script framework & Django - Python
- Conduct program testing, system testing & developing systematic test cases to support user acceptance test
- Troubleshoot issues across the entire system
- Work to improve performance, security and scalability

Requirement:
- Degree holder in Computer Science, Information Technology or equivalent
- 3-4 years of experience in web programming with Next.js (React Java Script framework) & Django - Python is a must
- Hands-on experience in full-stack development
- Knowledge in service marketplace interface design
- Proficiency in JavaScript, Python, PHP, MySQL

About you:
- Experience in start-up in preferred
- A strong team player with a growth mindset & flexible, positive attitude
- Passionate about mental health
- Strong sense of analytical and problem-solving skills
Email us your CV with availability, expected salary and your previous work support to info@kossie.co.uk.

All personal information collected would be kept in strict confidence and to be used for recruitment purpose only.

Want to know more about our company and brands, simply click and follow our platform:
Website: http://www.kossie.co.uk/
Instagram: https://www.instagram.com/therealkossie/